Loundesville News.

For some time Mr. E. R. Horton, who does a general merchandise business, had been missing goods from his store every Monday morning, but as the doors and windows were securely fastened the theft remained a mystery. A few days ago a negro by the name of West Burton was arrested on suspicion, and, after being questioned, he confessed his guilt and also told the names of four other negroes who had assisted him. Mr. Horton's store-room is a two-atory building and these negroes had been taking a ladder and going through the windows on the second floor. Mr. Horton has already gotten back about $200 worth of stolen goods. After confessing to Mr. Hor-ton they told how they had taken an old piece of iron and lifting the bar from the back door of Cooley & Speci's store and had been taking goods from them. This firm had never missed anything and a number of arricles, such as dry goods clothing, shoes, etc., have been found which were taken from this store. On last Saturday these darkies were given a preliminary

Was, thirty-five years ago, one of Germany's foremost physicians, besides he was a cele brated botanist and chemist. His discoveries were many and invariably successful. Per-haps his most important discovery was that of the great and popular preparation called Seven Barks-extracted from the bark of a specially grown Hydrangea plant. This bark grows in seven layers, each division possessing wonderful individual curative values. One acts as a gentle cathartic, another as an alterative, the third as a diurctic, the fourth as an expectorant-while the other three layers produce wonderful, upbuilding tonic elements.
